ServSafe Program to be held in Powell and Worland

The Wyoming Food Safety Coalition will host a ServSafe Program November 26 and 27 in Powell and Worland.

This food service certification course is recommended for food service managers, manager trainees, front line supervisors, restaurant owners, and anyone else desiring food service management certification.

The class will focus on food safety, developing a food safety system, the "flow of food," and maintaining sanitary facilities and equipment.

In Powell the class will be held in the University of Wyoming Seed Lab conference room and in Worland the class will be held in the Washakie County Cooperative Extension meeting room, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. Participants must pre-register by November 2. The registration fee is $127 per person and includes participant packets and training materials.

To obtain a registration form or for more information, contact Chelle Schwope at mschwo@state.wy.us or (307) 548-2154 for the Powell class and Lea Zeitlin at lzeitl@state.wy.us or (307) 347-2534 for the Worland class.

The ServSafe Program is sponsored by the University of Wyoming Cooperative Extension Service, Wyoming Beef Council, Wyoming Department of Agriculture, Wyoming Department of Health, and Wyoming Lodging and Restaurant Association.
